

Armstrong to Head Torrance Education Association in Fall

James Armstrong, Torrance High School teacher, has succeeded Willard Andreason as president of the Torrance Education Assn. Andreason, who taught last year at North High School, resigned to accept an administrative post in Felton, Calif. This would have been his second year as president of the Torrance teacher's group. Hiss Irma Wilson, South High School teacher, has been appointed vice-president; she had opposed Armstrong for the post last May.

The new president announced that while the Association's program for the 1961-62 school year is still in the formative stage, standing committees have been appointed and will be functioning by Sept. 1. "During the coming year, we plan to work cooperatively with the Board of Education and the district administration to bring our teacher's salaries up to the competitive standards set by comparable school districts," said the new president.

at present, even with the adoption of current proposals, maximum salaries and average elementary and high school salaries would be well below salaries paid in comparable districts in surrounding areas.

Other areas of emphasis in the Association program include the Good Teaching Conference in the spring, the annual charity fund drive, and an increased emphasis on public relations within the community, according to the new president.

ARMSTRONG, who resides at 808 Avenue 'D' in Redondo Beach with his wife Anne and daughter Julie, earned his Bachelor's degree at Pepperdine College, Master of Science in Education at SC, and has done advanced study at UCLA. He is a Navy veteran. The new president joined the school district in 1954 and taught at Howard Wood Elementary until 1960 when he moved to Torrance High School.
